Mr. Dinsmore to Introduce a Remedial Bill in Congress.

An Effort to Be Made to Secure All-Night Cars for the Better Accommodution of the Belated Public. Stopping for Passengers-Reasons Why the Mensure Is Expedient, Representative Hugh Dinamore of Arkansas has prepared a bill for the better regulation of the street car service in the District of Columbia, which he will introduce on the opening of Congress. The bill is principally simed at the two lines whose cars run to the Capitol. Among its provisions is one to compel a limited number of cars to run all night between the navy yard and Georgetown and on Connecticut Avenue, Ninth Street and Fourteeath Street to Brightwood. Another provision is to compel a car, under penalty, to stop at a street corner whenever a citizen signifies his intention to take passage.

The first regulation contemplates the accommodation of a large class of person;

STREET RAILWAY REFORM | who work or who are detained up or down town until the small hours of the morning Among this class are newspaper men, telegraphers, mail handlers, printers, stenographers, night clerks, and many sechanica laborers and night watchmen. When Congress is in session that body, its committees, its clerks, and other attaches, with the newspaper men and visitors, are not infrequently detained at the Capitol until after the cars cease running with no convenient or available vehicle of convey-nce to their hotels or homes. The Pennsylvania Avenue line some years ago experimented with all-night cars and speedily withdrew them with the excuse that they did not pay. Mr. Dinsmore holds, nevertheless, that the night service

The second regulation, it is thought, will effectually check the abuse of rushing cars past passengers when they are behind time, or slowing them up just sufficiently for a man to jump or swing himself on. Mr. Dinsmore says many painful accidents occur through this inexcusable haste by the mis-step of passengers while the cars are in "I met with one of these accidents myself last spring," said Mr. Dinsmore to a Times reporter, "and I badly sprained an ankle and have not forgotten it. I want to see these measures adopted for the benefit of others to accommodate the public and minimize the chances of injury to passen-

There have been many bills for the regulation of street railroads introduced in Congress, but they have not been pushed along because of a lack of interest in them. But every time Congress has entertained bills of the nature of the one introduced by Mr. Dinsmore the reforms contemplated have come to pass, sometimes before the bill be-ame a law.

Mr. Dinsmore says his bill will appeal to the good judgment and sympathy of every member of Congress and will become pop-ular with all classes of citizens. The only objections will come from the railway companies themselves. They have claimed that an all-night service would keep their machinery in perpetual motion and increase the chances of a breakdown through the

This objection is offset by the argumen that a few horse cars might be kept on hand and substituted for the motor cars when it is necessary to shut down the generating machinery early in the morn-

Third Assistant Postmaster General Madden has been invited to address the convention of the Postmasters' Association, which meets in this city in November. He will-probably discuss the proposition to consolidate the third and fourth-class mail matter, which, if done, would give the peo-ple something in the nature of a postal parcel post and the rate of postage would be only 8 cents per pound.

Postmaster General's Moving Day Postmuster General Smith will take possession of his new quarters in the City Postoffice building September 27. It is expected that the general office force will be moved by that time.

Second Day's Session of the Electro-Therapeutic Association.

Delegates Enjoy a Trip to Mount Vernon-New Practitioners Elected to Membership-Officers to Be Chosen at This Evening's Meeting-Next Year's Convention Place.

The American Electro-Therapeutic Association continued its second day's meeting at the Willard Hotel today and many interesting papers were read. There was a large attendance and many new ideas were brought out by the papers read and the disusaions which followed. Vice President Walter H. White of Boston, presided and the morning session was given over to the following programme: "Modalities of Induction Currents," by Dr. William J. Herdman, Ann Arbor, Mich.; a paper by Dr. Josephine Griffith Davis, New York; title not received; by Prof. A. E. Dolbear, Tufts College, Mass.; "Light as a Therapeutic Agent," by Dr. J. H. Kellogg, Bat-tle Creek, Mich.; "Osmosis and Bietectro-bysis," by Dr. Forveau de Courmellio, Par-France; "Treatment of Tubercular Glands of the Neck Without Scar," by Dr. G. Betton Massey, Philadelphia.

The meeting adjourned at 1 p. m., and the members and their wives and daughters were given a trip to Mount Vernon on the electric cars. A stop was made at Alexandria where lunch was served. The election of officers will be held this even-ing and the meeting will adjourn after a morning session tomorrow.

At the executive session this morning the name of Dr. Laura M. Reville, of Washington, was presented for membership, and she was elected. Dr. Reville is said to be one of the brightest woman physicians in the country, and her election was unanimous. on was unanimous

Dr. Murgaret A. Cleaves, of New York the only woman member of the associaion attending the meeting and she take an active interest in all its work. Dr. Cleaves has been a physician for about twenty-five years, is one of the charter members of the association and for the past eight years has been teaching physicians the science of electro-therapeutics.

Among the members of the association Mrs. Cleaves has many graduates of her school. She is a bright and interesting woman, the daughter of an lowa physi-sian, and says she cannot remember when she began studying medicine, as in her eraliest girlhood days she accompanied her father on his visits to patients and was al-ways interested in his work.

The following new members have been elected to the association: Dr. Elijah W. Smith, Terra Haute Ind.; Dr. Albert C. Geyser, New York; Dr. William F. Brady. Scranton, Pa.; Dr. Gustavus M. Biech, Chicago, Ill.; Dr. A. G. Minshall, North-ampton, Mass.; Dr. William B. Snow, New York, Dr. Dudley Pulton, Battle Creek, Mich.; Dr. L. D. Judd, Philadelphia, Pa.; Dr. Maurice F. Pilgrim, Boston, Mass. That the electro-therapeutists are popu lar is shown by the fact that letters have been received from Buffalo. Omaha, De-troit, Niagara Falls, Milwaukee, and Cincinnati urging the association to hold its meeting in 1960 in those cities. The de-cision of the question of the next place of meeting was postponed until tonight when Armstend Taylor Defendant in an Action in Equity.

It appears that the father, Armstead Tay-It appears that the father, Armstead Taylor, died intestate in 1839, having about $3,000 of property. His wife died shortly after. When the son, Armstead Taylor, jr., became of age, he, of course, dropped the junior after his name. The bill then alleges that in securing a loan of $1,000 from a building association, he represented himself as the sole owner of the property. whereas he had but a one-sixth undivided interest to dispose of. The abstract of title showed the property to be in Armstead Taylor, and so the building associa-tion promptly made the loan. Afterward it was realized that a man thirty odd years of age could not have been deeded property in 1848—over fifty years ago, and about twenty-one years before he was born. So the bill asks cancellation of the deed of trust.

Peculiar Allegations in Mrs. Hardy's Divorce Petition.

For more than five years Mrs. Florence L. Hardy has anxiously and patiently awaited the return of her husband, George M. Hardy, who, it is alleged, practically deserted her at the altar when they were married in Baltimore on March 20, 1894. On the date mentioned, Mrs. Hardy says in her petition for divorce filed today through her attorney, Charles Benbeim, that after the marriage ceremony was performed she and her husband went to the railway depot for the purpose of returning to Washington. To her surprise however, she states, her husband, the de-fendant in these proceedings, informed her
